Secure Prop: People steal props, even in Texas. Propellers are expensive, and in today's world, you have to protect the investment. Besides, there is absolutely nothing worse than waking up at zero-dark-early for a fishing trip, only to discover there is no prop on your boat. Secure Prop propeller locks make sure that doesn't happen. This stainless-steel disk-shaped padlock hangs on tight, so thieves can't do their dirty work.

Smith T-tops: If frying in the sun isn't your idea of fun, then you need a T-top. Unfortunately, most are manufactured for specific boats, at the factory. Smith has the answer: the T-Top Kit with different sized stand-offs allows you to custom fit it to your boat. Hardware is all 316-grade stainless, tubing is 1.5-inch diameter, and it fits most boats up to 24 feet.

Streamlight Flashlights: There should be a flashlight on every boat, and Streamlight has the right kind (read, "waterproof and shockproof") for marine use. Everything from penlights to clip-on hands-free models and blinding spotlights is in their line-up, and the LED models are stingy on battery power while providing tons of candlepower.
